Attorney General Upholds Removal Of Old Appraiser

Opinion Declaring Appointment of New Commissioners Handed Down Today by Attorney General

WILSON WILL BE MERCANTILE APPRAISER

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 22. (By United Press)—In an opinion given by Deputy Attorney General Harget today to Auditor General Powell, the Attorney General's department upholds the removal of old mercantile appraisers and the appointment of new ones by county commissioners who took office January 3rd.

Commissioners in Allegheny, Clearfield, Dauphin and some other counties took such action. It has been stated that in nearly all of these cases the removal and appointments grew out of politics. Powell cited the Dauphin county case to the Attorney General's department.

The opinion says that the state has no concern with the political end of any such matter but that it is concerned with the validity of appraisers made by the new appointees. Hargest says that mercantile apraisers are named each year before December 31st and that such appointees are removed at any time at the will of the appointing power.

BITUMINOUS COAL WORKERS ASK FOR TEN CENT INCREASE

Resolutions Before Scale Committee Asking For a 5 to 20 Cent Increase

Will Demand a Two Year Agreement Report of Grievances and Appeals Occupys Entire Day.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.— It was learned last night from leaders in the United Mine Workers of America, which is now in bi-ennial convention in this city, that those in control of the organization expect the convention to adopt a scale for the bituminous coal fields which will call for at least 10 cents per ton increase in wages. There are resolutions before the scale committee for action, which call for increases all the way from five to twenty cents, it was said, but it is not expected that the committee will recommend a higher increase than 10 cents.

Two years ago the miners demanded an increase of five cents a ton and a ten per cent increase for day labor, yardage and dead work. The mine run basis of payment, checkoff and a uniform day and wage scale for all classes of day laborers are among other things that are expected to be in the report of the scale committee.

There is also a likelihood, according to some of the leaders that a two-year agreement will be demanded. Delegates say they do not look for serious trouble in making two wage scales and expect there will be no suspension in regions where negotiations are still under way after contracts expire March 31.

The convention occupied the entire day in considering reports from the committee on grievances and appeals and credentials, and in listening to the reading of other reports pertaining to the organization.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22 (By United Press)— Before the wage scale committee of the United Mine Workers resumed executive session today the hint was thrown out that the committee may recommend that the bituminous miners demand a 20 percent increase in wages. This hint came from a member of the committee who would not allow the use of his name. Earlier predictions were that a ten percent increase would be asked. The committed member said that since the miners got no increases in 1914 a 20 per cent increase now is no more than just.

Washington, Jan. 22 (By United Press)—The Pittsburg coal operators association in a complaint filed with the interstate commerce commission today against the Pennsylvania and other railroads charged that the rate of 78 cents a ton on cargoes of coal from Pittsburg to Ashtabula, Ohio, is unreasonable and asked a revision.

TWENTY ACRE FARMER WINS PRIZES AT DENVER

Table Rock, Neb., Jan. 22.—(By United Press.)—Arnold Martin, a former Swiss farmer who resides near here, has attracted international attention as a twenty-acre farmer. Recently at Denver he won prizes in every class but the thing about which Mr. Martin is most pleased and proud is that corn he raised was selected by the Chinese commissioner at the Panama Pacific Exposition to be sent to China, where, under the supervision of the Chinese government experts, the seed is to be propagated, acclimated and adopted.

There are few small farms in this locality, many of them running 160 and even 640 acres. Mr. Martin received his training as a small acreage farmer in Switzerland, and he finds no difficulty in making twenty acres pay and pay well, besides getting prize taking crops.

ANNUAL REPORT OF HEALTH BOARD IS MADE TO COUNCIL

Health Officer McCullough Reports Board in Flourishing Condition in Past Year

225 Contagious Diseases Reported During 1915, Over a Hundred of Which Were Reported During Epidemics of January February and March.

At the council meeting which was held Wednesday evening in the borough hall, Health Officer O. B. McCullough submitted this annual report. The report shows great improvements in the manner of administration of the Board of Health, including the inauguration of the keeping of permanent records of the work which the board carries on. The report of the house to house canvass which was taken during the fall was also given.

The following is the report in full as given:

During the year just ended the Board of Health has instituted many very important changes in its methods of administration. Previously the work had not been systemized and no detailed records were kept of work done by the department, except as shown by the minutes. The present system as inaugurated gives permanent records of all the work handled, and the disposition made complaints and inspections together with the other work coming before the board for consideration. We are able therefore to give a more comprehensive report this year than previously.

The largest amount of this work has been done since we have had a full time health officer, namely since about the first of May.

House to house inspection by health officer shows the following.

Population within boro limits, 7,651.

Number of dwellings, 1 614.

Number owning their own homes, 856.

Number living in rented houses, 758 families.

Number of horses in the boro, 228.

Number of cows in the boro, 89.

Number of chickens in the boro, 20.564.

Number of dogs in the boro, 256.

Number of cats in the boro, 454.

In connection with this work 136 clean up notices and 796 nuisance notices were served. Also 30 sewer and 108 sidewalk notices were served.

The citizens lodged 432 complaints most of which have been satisfactorily disposed of. Over 100 quarts of flies were caught in the 13 traps set on the streets.

At the begining of the inspection 564 privies existed. Of this number 238 have been removed. 154 sanitary comodes installed in their place and 113 privies left upon streets where there are no sewers.

There were 135 manure piles most of which have been removed. There have been 73 manure pits constructed.

Pigs to the number of 19 were discovered and ordered removed.

Milk is sold from 26 dwellings. This does not include the dairymen whose wagons come into the boro to sell milk.

Contagious diseases to the number of 255 were reported during the year 1915. Of this number 106 were reported during the epidemics of January, February and March. In the last nine months 149 were reported.

The diseases were as follows:

Measles, 111.
Typhoid, 8.
Scarlet fever, 35.
Diptheria, 13.
Chicken pox, 47.
Whooping cough, 5.
Mumps, 35.
Tuberculosis, 1.

The census shows that 49 cases of tuberculosis were found existing in the boro.

At the present time there are two cases of scarlet fever, three cases of diptheria and one case of chicken pox within the borough limits. This number of contagious diseases is exceptionally small for this time of year and for the population of the town.

GIRL EXPERIMENTING ON NEW DEADLY EXPLOSIVE

Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 22.—(By United Press.)—Though she abhors war, pretty Beatrice Rudawsky, University of California graduate who looks the artist more than the scientific, is experimenting with a deadly explosive which she says will be more powerful than the most affective explosive now in existence.

"Explosives," she says, "are as valuable to peaceful pursuits as to war. If my experiments are successful, I should like to think of them as a step in science, rather than as a means of killing more men."

CHILD IS FATALLY BURNED WHEN FIRE DESTROYED HOME

Home of Paul Chumpa Destroyed by Flames Which Started From Heating Stove

Mother Had Gone on Errand to a Neighbor's House and Returned to Find Home Destroyed and Child Dead.

Clearfield was visited with another disastrous fire yesterday afternoon, and one which claimed a greater toll than Wednesday night's conflagration, as a seventeen month old baby was burned to death. The fire was in the Wrigley addition in the home of Paul Chumpa, a slav. It broke out shortly after three o'clock in the parlor of the house and was caused from the heating stove in the room.

When the firemen arrived on the scene, the house, a two storied frame structure was all ablaze; the flames coming out of every window. The firemen were notified that a child was in the building but could not enter on account of the intense heat and the flames. They immediately directed the water and chemicals in the portion of the house that the child was supposed to be in, but had been misinformed with the result that the part of the house in which the child lay asleep was completely destroyed.

Mrs. Chumpa had gone out to a neighbors home on an errand and left her child asleep on the second floor and two other children playing on a nearby hill. The flames were discovered by a neighbor but they had gained such headway as to prevent entrance into the building. The fire was a very difficult one for the firemen as the house was situated in the township and several thousand feet from a fire plug. Chemicals were used to great advantage in extinguishing the blaze as only two streams of water were used.

The child was left asleep on the second story of the building. From appearances the fire started in the room below from the heating stove. The flames ignited the ceiling and soon destroyed it, the bed in which the child lay falling through the floor. The child was found amid a heap of bedclothes lying on the mattress on the first floor. It was burned only about the head and hands, its body being protected from the flames by the bedclothes.

The entire building was destroyed with an estimated loss of two thousand dollars. It was owned by M. M. Overly.

DERAILED CARS HOLD UP TRAFFIC ON B. R. & P.

About seven o'clock last evening, two cars of a N. Y. C. freight train were derailed at Hyde City by the falling down of a break beam of one of the cars. The wreck train was immediately summoned, and in about one hour after its arrival, the track was opened to traffic. The wreck had it impossible for the seven o'clock B. R. & P. passenger to DuBois to pass so that train was transferred to the Pennsylvania tracks being transferred back at Carwensville to the B. R. & P. tracks.

WILL PROMOTE PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT OF PALESTINE

One Thousand Attend Meeting—Much Money Ranised For the Plan

Chicago, Jan. 22.— (By United Press.)—A thousand delegates from Jewish organizations throughout America are to gather in Chicago tomorrow to promote the Jewish plans for the development of Palestine and particularly, Jerusalem. They come to plan for an international congress of their race, which is expected to plan the restoration of Palestine to the Jews. Hundreds of thousands of dollars already have been pledged toward this and much already has been accomplished. Louis D. Brandeis, Boston lawyer, who has been prominent among the Zionists, declared that the American Congress of Jews is not indulging in an idle dream. "It is more than a possibility," he said.

C. B. C. COMPANY ACQUIRES ELEVEN ACRE TRACT OF LAND

New Reservoir Will be Built in the Spring to Eliminate Pumping Of Water

As a result of negotiations closed Wednesday, the Cigarfield Bituminous Coal Corporation, operating at Rossiter, has accepted an 11-acre tract of land from Jacob Smith, which will permit them to greatly increase their facilities for securing a more adequate water supply.

The land lies along Canoe Creek, which had been dammed by the company years ago, and from which it had been securing its water supply. It was necessary, however, to pump this water for use in the boilers of the company's plant, and by running its water line three-quarters of a mile farther up the stream the C. B. C. corporation will be enabled to secure sufficient gravity pressure from a new reservoir to be built next spring to eliminaet the necessity of pumping water for stream purposes.

While the plans for the reservoir have not been drawn yet, it is understood that the capacity for water will largely be increased, and that if the watershed proves sufficient, free from impurities, the water may also be turned into the boilers of Rossiter residents for domestic purposes.

The price paid by the corporation for the newly acquired land was $1 100.

Y. M. C. A. SWAMPS JERSEY SHORE IN ONE SIDED GAME

Visitors Challenge Clearfield To Game on Neutral Floor in Near Future

Record Attendance Witnesses Slaughter—Coach Oberdick and Ted Leitzinger as Usual Stars of Game for Clearfield.

Clearfield completely swamped the Jersey Shore basket ball tossers last night on the Y. M. C. A. floor in a very interesting game although one that lacked speed during several periods. Score 59-37. Jersey Shore did not become disheartened by the defeat but instead placed more confidence in their ability to beat Clearfield and are now trying to arrange a game on a neutral floor.

It seems that the visitors are accustomed to a style of game not commonly played by any teams that Clearfield has come up against so far this season. From the manager's story, Jersey Shore has a referee who does not miss a foul and his team, from appearances has been winning their games on their captain's ability to shoot fouls, he making a fine average last night in that department of the game. The manager is willing to put up a guarantee for the game on neutral floor and put it up to Clearfield to say whether or not this game will be played. From their present outlook, the game will probably be played although the date will not be arranged for for some time.

During the time that Captain Snyder of the Jersey Shore team was not complaining about the manner in which the game was refereed, the struggle was staged with the greatest success. The home team completely overpowered their opponents during the entire struggle, and outplayed them in every department with the exception of foul shooting which was a minor part.

The stellar floor game and shooting of Coach Oberdick and the accurate shooting of Ted Leitzinger were the features of the entertainment. The entire game was very amusing for all those who attended, several very comical events happening. The attendance was all that was expected, nearly 175 being present.

Line up:

The facts set forth in the Fletcher report, humiliating and discouraging as they are, have long been a matter of common knowledge, in spite of the efforts of Secretary Daniels to muzzle the responsible officers of the navy and to keep from the public the real truth about the results of his policy of experiment and scuttle. Fortunately for the cause of truth, it will not be possible for Daniels to discredit Admiral Fletcher and his statements. Both the president and his secretary of the navy have placed on record their high appreciation of Admiral Fletcher as an officer of discretion and statesmanship, a "typical American." In the present temper of the American people and in the face of the universal demand for naval increase adequate to the needs of national defense Admiral Fletcher ought to be safe from punishment at the hands of the man whose mendacity he has so unmercifully exposed.

If Secretary Daniels shal attempt to brazen it out in the face of this revelation of the deadly effect of the Danielizing policy upon naval readiness and efficiency, and if the president shall be willing to allow so serious a handicap upon his program of preparedness to remain in control of the nation's first line of defense, the opponents of the Federal administration will be given new ammunition for their assault all along the line for which they are now preparing. The immediate resignation of Daniels will be too late to undo the [illegible] he has already done, but it will at least a [illegible] in [illegible] a demonstration that ignorance [illegible] responsible for a course of [illegible] which during two years has permitted the navy to go backward in every element which makes for efficiency.—Public Ledger.

PAWNBROKERS IN ROME SUFFER LARGE LOSSES

Women Enjoy Financial Prosperity on Husbands Wages from Government

(By United Press)

Rome, Italy, Jan. 6.—(By Mail.)—War, which has boomed almost every industry in the world, has put the Italian pawnshop not on the boom but on the bum. The Italian women say this has happened because their soldier husbands are not at home to spend their money for drink and the wives can use the goverament pay to take care of the family instead of pawning everything in sight. Hard times for the people are supposed to make good times for the pawnbroker, but whatever other trials and miseries the war is inflicting upon Italian wives, mothers and sweethearts, it has lessened rather than increased the financia lworries. Pawnbrokers in Rome alone report a slump of hundreds of thousands of dollars in business. Most of those are government controlled pawnshops and before the war their portals were among the most frequented by all Italy. The government allowance to wives and families amounts to only a few cents a day, but the Italian women have learned frugality in a hard school and they know their lesson well. Not only are most of them taking care of their families, but many of them are scratching and saving enough soldi to redeem some of the plodged household articles. "Of course I can manage when every thing doesn't go for wine," said the wife of a workman. "A lire a day from the government and the fifty centimes a day I make from sewing is a lire and a half more than I had when my man was home. Bread and soup and a little cheese what more does one want? My children and I manage very well."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidney and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

NEW YORKERS NOT TAKING KINDLY TO HORSE MEAT

People Will Not Accept Diet Recommended by Board of Health

New York, Jan. 20.—(By United Press.)—New Yorkers are not taking gently to the horse meat diet the Board of Health recently authorized the butchers to provide them. About the only effect the horse meat move has had on the public is the revival of that good old gag about "Neigh! Neigh!" As revised to date it goes like this: Butcher:—Can't I sell you some nice horse steak today? Customer:—Neigh! Neigh! At which the butcher's boy is expected always to laugh. Sort of a horse laugh you know. The public officials have made some serious effort to get the horse meat sales started declaring they believe it would be a good thing economically. Health Commissioner Emerson points out that horse meat is cheaper than beef and quite as nutritious; though slightly different in taste and of somewhat coarser fiber, it is as digestible as beef; that the horse is less liable to [illegible] than is the cow and that the horse is more discriminating in its eating and drinking than is the cow. Arguments, from various sources, against horse meat as food for human beings, are that the flesh is darker, tougher and less palatable than cow meat; that inspection to insure good meat would be difficult to establish; that young, healthy horses whose meat might be good to eat, are worth twice as much as cattle that only crippled, ailing, aged or broken down horses are apt to be put on the food market and that, finally, the public won't overcome its prejudice against horse meat anyhow. There are some horse meat sales, but the market is exceedingly restricted and mighty few shops list the item. Dr. W. T. Hornaday of the Bronx Zoo said today that horse meat is [illegible] and should not be eaten by human beings. Dr. Harlow [illegible] horse meat was a bully [illegible] [illegible] Katharine [illegible] to the State Pardons Board, said she strongly favors the horse meat idea, had eaten it in Hungary and Bohemia and liked it, though it was "a little bit tough." President Frederick Nathan, of the Consumers' league said he didn't like the idea. Several other prominent New Yorkers said they didn't like the idea either. BOOM EDWIN S. STUART FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Political Dopesters Guessing—Same Protector Attains "Fame"—Little Stories From Capitol Hill.

Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—Varied emotions mark Capital Hill's reception of the Philadelphia boom for Ex-Gov. Edwin S. Stuart for the Republican nomination for vice president. Stuart's personal popularity assures the boom a welcome almost everywhere. But coming on the heels of much talk about Gov. Brumbaugh as a presidential candidate it set politicians guessing. No one has thoroughly doped out the proposition, but the general feeling is that harmony between the Bull Moose and the Elephant means that such a rock-ribbed high tariff state as Pennsylvania stands small show of being represented on the ticket.

Notwithstanding the serious purpose back of the "Pennsylvania State Society" of the principal of the state government, most of the persons on Capitol Hill, including some members of the society, decline to take it seriously. It has been variously nicknamed the Sewing Society, the Embroidery Guild and the Old Men's Home.

The offices of the State Workmen's Compensation Board are in the Masonic Temple, facing the Capitol. Les Soloman is secretary of the board. Quite naturally, the secretary's friends speak of "going to see King Solomon in his Temple."

Fame has its drawbacks.

"I spoke in Wilkes-Barre last fall before the State Federation of Women's Clubs," remarked Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, chief state game protector, this afternoon. "Ever since then I have received invitations from all directions to speak locally. Usually, they want me to address the school children in the morning and to speak to the women in the afternoon or evening. I have twenty-five such engagements now."

Dr. Kalbfus has a case of thirty or more mounted specimens of native birds with which he illustrates his talk. Like every other official, he accepts every invitation possible, for it is the best sort of educational publicity.

Under the constitution of lieutenant governor must preside at the opening of the biennial session of the senate and must be in Harrisburg ten times each year for the Board of Pardons' sessions. That's all. He gets $5,000 per year. He has no cares of office, for all the patronage at his disposal are two clerkships. The lieutenant governor can preside over the senate whenever he desires. Frank B. McClain did a great deal of that last winter. So did John M. Reynolds, his immediate successor.

LEE MAGEE.

Some base ball authorities believe that Lee Magee is the greatest player in the game, with the single exception of Ty Cobb. He showed wonderful form with the Federal league club of Brooklyn last season. Capt. Huston, one of the owners of the New York American league club who negotiated the deal, paid $22,500 for the Fed. Magee is equally as good as a second baseman or outfielder. The New York club needs a second baseman, and it also needs three good outfielders.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

Is it practical to bore out and put in new pistons?

It is advisable when the cylinders are not worn too eccentric, and only a small amount of metal need be removed. Perhaps .002 to .005 inch would be sufficient.

One of the coils on my battery box buzzes all the time. I have looked for a short circuit, but am not able to find it. What is the trouble?

Probably a small strand of wire is making contact where attached to the timer or the insulation on the timer at that point is broken. If the timer is old you should get a new one, as the trouble may be inside and due to excessive wear.

My car travels well up to a speed of twenty miles per hour, but when the speed is increased the water boils so fast that the radiator is soon emptied and consequently I have the [illegible] trouble which accompanies a heated engine. The pump is in good condition, new heavy hose all around. The radiator was opened up and all the tubes were free, and also the tanks are in good shape. Circulation seems to be good. The cylinders have recently been burned out with oxygen. What can be the trouble?

It would seem that your trouble must result from one of two causes—first, an improper setting of the spark, which can be corrected by advancing the magneto, or, second, by a collapsing hose connection between the radiator and the water pump, which at twenty miles per hour or over becomes closed, due to the suction of the pump. This latter cause seems to be the most probable, and it can be remedied by winding a piece of wire into the shape of a coil spring and inserting it tightly into the tube, thus holding the walls against collapsing under the suction of the pump.

Would running a small stream of water through the engine while it is hot and running, pouring it slowly into the petcock of the [illegible] of the intake manifold, loosen and blow out carbon in the cylinders?

The use of water in this way hardly would loosen the carbon. Kerosene allowed to remain in the cylinders for about twelve hours would be better, for the loosening process [illegible] the oil in the [illegible].

What is the [illegible] curved piece of [illegible] the valve in inner tubes? Should it be taken off the tube when the tire is to be used with straight side tires? I find that it cuts the flaps and sometimes the [illegible] I have removed them [illegible] and see no fault in [illegible] without them.

[illegible] satisfactorily without it.

What are the advantages of the shaft [illegible] friction?

The shaft drive is simple, easily lubricated, requires practically no care, is not heavy, cumbersome or noisy and makes an ideal drive method for passenger cars. The chain drive is good for [illegible] in that it allows better reduction [illegible]. However, it is [illegible] more care than the [illegible] to lubricate [illegible] friction drive is the simplest of all and weighs much less than any other form, is more easily operated, is cheaper and has a low operating cost.

How may a spark plug be fixed so it will not lose compression? I find the garage men just screw them in tightly, but when tested with oil some of them leak more or less.

Some plugs cause leakage because of broken down gaskets between the shell and insulation, but if you refer to leakage around the threads this may easily be [illegible]. [illegible] a good copper gasket [illegible] before placing a plug into position [illegible] above blacking lightly [illegible] will prevent [illegible] will not interfere with [illegible].

My car runs well a couple of miles after starting, but will begin to miss fire on one of the cylinders as soon as the engine [illegible] and misses [illegible] I prime it. Then it [illegible] a dozen revolutions [illegible] Can you explain?

Apparently there is an air leak in the cylinder which misses. You should examine this carefully, going over all connections of manifold to the cylinder and also going around the threads of the spark plugs and priming cups. With a rich starting mixture it is possible that an air leak does not have the effect of causing a miss, but as soon as the motor begins to run expansion due to the heat in the cylinder causes the leak to increase, and hence a [illegible] possibility is that the [illegible] supplying only [illegible] and then, as soon as [illegible] the excess is [illegible] motor will not have [illegible] run upon. A third [illegible] one of the valves of [illegible] needs grinding or [illegible] properly. This also [illegible] and when looking [illegible] should not fail to inspect [illegible] surrounding the valve stems.

Why will not some cars start without first putting gasoline in the priming cups?

[illegible] that some cars will not start without first priming is that a [illegible] rich mixture is not being supplied at the start. This is some[illegible] due to carburetor adjustment [illegible] to manifold design [illegible].

Is there any way of fixing springs [illegible] easily? I have [illegible]

[illegible] ever made. Another very prevalent cause of spring breakage is allowing the clips to get loose. They must fit up snug and tight on the springs.

SHEPARD'S WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

New York, Jan. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard today quietly celebrated the third anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. Shepard before her marriage was Miss Helen M. Gould. Since their last wedding anniversary the Shepards have acquired an adopted son to share the attention of the couple with their many schemes of philanthropy. Nearly the whole of the year is passed by the Shepards at Lyndhurst, their magnificent estate at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. Intimate friends of the couple declare it is impossible to say whether the husband or wife is most keeny interested in the practical work of charity and philanthropy. Both have made it their life work. Neither has manifested the sligtest interest in the diversions that most wealthy people find necessary to their happiness. They will have none of society. Its closely guarded doors would have swung back for them long ago had they knocked upon them or even shown that they were aware that ought existed behind them. But the multi-millionaire couple live as though society were not.

Winter Care of Child Takes Much Attention

So much emphasis is constantly placed upon the necessity for special care of the baby in summer, when the heat is excessive and diarrheal diseases at their worst, that the fact that winter, too, has its special dangers for the baby is sometimes overlooked.

But the combination of heat and diarrhea is hardly more serious for the baby in the months of July and August, than are cold and respiratory diseases in winter.

It is plain then, that the winter care of the baby deserves special attention from everyone interested in his health and well-being.

It has been demonstrated quite conclusively that a large part of the deaths from summer diarrhea are needless, because this disease may be cured in many cases, and prevented entirely in many more by the proper care and feeding of the baby during the heated months. The same doctrine is now being applied to the group of what are commonly called "winter diseases" of babies and children, namely, bronchitis, pneumonia, "colds," and the like, which are, like diarrhea, to a large extent, preventable by the intelligent care of the baby, and by surrounding him with proper living conditions.

These proper living conditions consist both in winter and summer of suitable food, in the right amounts, at the right times, cleanliness, sufficient sleep, plenty of fresh, clean air to breathe, and protection from exposure to infection diseases. It is chiefly the lack of these two latter requirements that causes the winter illnesses among babies.

It is not the cold of winter which makes people sick, ordinarily, but rather the stale over-heated air inside our houses and public buildings, which we breathe and re-breathe, thus passing disease germs about from one to another. Babies are particularly liable to be infected in this way, because they spend a large part of their time indoors, and because mothers are apt to feel that to keep the baby warm the rooms must be kept shut tight.

A mother should use every means in her power to protect her baby from "taking cold," as it is commonly described. "Colds" are due to a germ and are very contagious, being easily passed from one person to another in coughing or sneezing. A nursing mother with a cold should tie a thin cloth or veil over her mouth and nose while nursing the baby, and should be careful never to cough or sneeze in his face, nor kiss him on the mouth. She should be particularly careful not to use her own handkerchief for the baby, nor sleep with him, while the disease lasts. Many babies contract these colds by being taken up and kissed by visitors, and it is a wise rule to keep the baby away from the presence of people who are coughing and sneezing. The reason for this great care as regards a baby is that a contagious cold is very often the forerunner of bronchitis and pneumonia, which diseases cause the deaths of many thousands of young babies every year, and which are infinitely easier to prevent than to cure.

Fresh air is the most effective weapon with which to fight the diseases of the respiratory tract. This does not necessarily mean cold air, for cold air may be stale, and warm air may be pure. The ventilation of most American houses is faulty, since in order to keep them warm enough to suit us we shut them so tightly as to make the air unfit to breathe, after a few hours. To counteract this tendency mothers should see to it that all the occupied rooms of the house are thoroughly aired at least twice every day in the coldest weather, while in moderate weather there should be as nearly constant a supply of fresh air throughout the house, night and day, as can be managed.

When the temperature outside is very low, the baby should be taken into a warm room while his nursery is being aired, and at night, his bed should be shielde from a direct draft. If there is a communicating room, the window in that room may be opened, if there is danger of chilling the air of his sleeping room.

If the cold is excessive, or if there is a raw, damp wind blowing or rain or snow falling, the baby should be given his daily airing in a room with the windows open, or on a protected perch, dressing him warmly in out of door clothing. He should be taken out during the middle of the day, for a little while, never long enough to run the risk of chilling him. This applies especially to young and delicate babies. As a child gets old enough to walk about an dthus exercise himself, he can be allowed to play for some time in an open room or where he is sheltered from the wind.

But an airing every day does not take the place of fresh air in the house, day and night, and to secure sufficient ventilation for health the mother must be on the watch to see that the rooms are opened and the air changed at frequent intervals.

Mrs. John Selfridge was buried at the Goshen cemetery Thursday at 2:30 o'clock.

We met a man on Lick Run hill the other day, who stopped us and told us he had just seen a bear cross the road and go toward the river; he was a pretty big man and we didn't call him a liar but there was not a bear track in sight and we know no sane bear would be out such weather.

During the recent cold spell we were told a young man walked from Germoor to Wolf Run to see his best girl. Guess you would walk further than that if you saw the girl once, eh Henry?

A BANKER'S ADVICE TO A HOUSEWIFE ON ECONOMY

Cleveland, O., Jan. 22.—"If every family saved one match a day, the United States would be ahead $500,000 a year," today said F. D. Conner, president of one of the biggest financial institutions here. Conner believes every housewife should be paid a weekly wage to prevent family squabbles; and that every wife should prevent food waste. He claims fortunes in food are thrown into garbage cans. The banker believes bills should be paid by check and a stipulated amount saved weekly.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson IV.—First Quarter, For Jan. 23, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Rom. viii, 12-39. Memory Verses, 16, 17—Golden Text, Rom. viii, 14—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

After a lesson on Pentecost and Peter's first sermon such a chapter as Romans viii seems to be an appropriate study, for in it the Spirit is mentioned nineteen times in connection with conversion, the daily life of the believer and the redemption of our bodies at the resurrection of the just. The epistle begins with a statement by the apostle, as a servant of Jesus Christ, that he was separated into the gospel of God concerning His Son, Jesus Christ our Lord, who was with power declared to be the Son of God by His resurrection from the dead (i, 1-4). He said that this gospel was the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, that it made him debtor to all who had not heard it, that he was ready to give it to all and that he was not ashamed of it (i, 14-16). In the following chapters he declares plainly that all, without exception, are guilty before God and cannot be saved by trying to be good or do good, but may be justified freely by grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus (iii, 9-24; iv, 1-7, 19-25; v, 1-11; vi, 23). Then in our lesson chapter, beginning with "no condemnation" and ending with "no separation" because of the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord, he sets forth more fully the benefits of this great redemption to every believer and to the whole creation. The whole chapter should be studied, omitting none of it.

The phrase "in Christ Jesus" (verses 1, 2, 39) seems to me to be the key to the whole chapter. Nothing more is necessary, nothing less will suffice, for salvation or for the daily life of those who are saved. (Gal. v, 6; vi, 15; Eph. i, 10, 13; iii, 13). The carnal mind, the flesh, the natural man, can never be improved so as to be fit for the presence of God, and, although it remains in us after we become "in Christ," we are under no obligation to it and should have no confidence in it, but continually, prayerfully and persistently reckon it dead in the power of the Holy Spirit (chapter vi, 11; vii, 24, 25; viii, 1-14; I Cor. ix, 27; II Cor. iv, 10, 11; Phil. iii, 3). By the Spirit and the Word we are born again just as in the beginning of the Bible record the light shone in the darkness (Gen. i, 2, 3; II Cor. iv, 6), and only by the same Spirit and Word can we live the life of a child of God (John vi, 63; xvii, 17). The Spirit always works by the Word and thus bears witness to the believer. The witness of the Spirit is not a feeling, an emotion, an experience, but is simply a resting unwaveringly on what the Spirit says to us in His word. Compare lesson verse 16 and John i, 12, and see my tract on "The Witness of the Spirit."

Having received the Lord Jesus it is our privilege to know, on the authority of the infallible word of God, that we have become children of God, heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ, have now eternal life and can never perish (verses 16, 17; John x, 28). While this assurance is not essential to salvation, it is necessary in order to live the life of victory that will glorify God. As the redeemed of the Lord we have become soldiers of Jesus Christ and are ever in a great conflict with the world, the flesh and the devil, so there will be much to endure in the way of trial as well as much to do in the way of service, but the way is all prepared for us and also the works we are to do. (II Tim. ii, 3, 4; Eph vi, 10-18; ii, 10; Rev. ii, 10; Phil. i, 29.) God the Father, Son and Spirit are all for us (verses 26, 31, 34). All things are working together for our good, to make us more like Him whose witnesses we are, and we are assured that all we can possibly need is freely given to us in Christ (verses 28, 29, 32).

We shall not be the overcomers that we should be in the process of being killed all the day long (verse 36; Ps. xliv, 22) unless we lay to heart our lesson verses 18 to 23. There is real suffering with Christ, not for our salvation, but in service and fellowship, for every believer, and we will not triumph in the conflict nor endure patiently unless we have ever before us the glory of His kingdom, which we are to share with Him. The whole creation is groaning, and never before so severely as now (May, 1915), and there will be no permanent deliverance until the time of the manifestation of the sons of God—that is, the time of our coming with Christ in His glory to set up on earth His kingdom of righteousness and peace. It is true that if we are "in Christ" we are now children of God, but not until we meet Him in the air shall we know the full meaning of adoption, the redemption of our body (verse 23 and I John iii, 1, 2; see also Col. iii, 4; Rev. iii, 21; v, 9, 10). We groan while we wait for the redemption, [illegible]ly at His coming to the air for us. The whole creation groans while it waits for His coming with us to deliver it from its long bondage of sin and suffering (verses 19-22).

All things are not working for our comfort, but for our present and eternal good in His sight, and all is because of His love from which nothing can separate us (verses 38, 39). If we could see the glory which awaits us and for which He is fitting us by the all things we would be more willing to bear all.

Attorney General Upholds Removal Of Old Appraiser

Opinion Declaring Appointment of New Commissioners Handed Down Today by Attorney General

WILSON WILL BE MERCANTILE APPRAISER

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 22. (By United Press)—In an opinion given by Deputy Attorney General Harget today to Auditor General Powell, the Attorney General's department upholds the removal of old mercantile appraisers and the appointment of new ones by county commissioners who took office January 3rd.

Commissioners in Allegheny, Clearfield, Dauphin and some other counties took such action. It has been stated that in nearly all of these cases the removal and appointments grew out of politics. Powell cited the Dauphin county case to the Attorney General's department.

The opinion says that the state has no concern with the political end of any such matter but that it is concerned with the validity of appraisers made by the new appointees. Hargest says that mercantile apraisers are named each year before December 31st and that such appointees are removed at any time at the will of the appointing power.

BITUMINOUS COAL WORKERS ASK FOR TEN CENT INCREASE

Resolutions Before Scale Committee Asking For a 5 to 20 Cent Increase

Will Demand a Two Year Agreement Report of Grievances and Appeals Occupys Entire Day.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.— It was learned last night from leaders in the United Mine Workers of America, which is now in bi-ennial convention in this city, that those in control of the organization expect the convention to adopt a scale for the bituminous coal fields which will call for at least 10 cents per ton increase in wages. There are resolutions before the scale committee for action, which call for increases all the way from five to twenty cents, it was said, but it is not expected that the committee will recommend a higher increase than 10 cents.

Two years ago the miners demanded an increase of five cents a ton and a ten per cent increase for day labor, yardage and dead work. The mine run basis of payment, checkoff and a uniform day and wage scale for all classes of day laborers are among other things that are expected to be in the report of the scale committee.

There is also a likelihood, according to some of the leaders that a two-year agreement will be demanded. Delegates say they do not look for serious trouble in making two wage scales and expect there will be no suspension in regions where negotiations are still under way after contracts expire March 31.

The convention occupied the entire day in considering reports from the committee on grievances and appeals and credentials, and in listening to the reading of other reports pertaining to the organization.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22 (By United Press)— Before the wage scale committee of the United Mine Workers resumed executive session today the hint was thrown out that the committee may recommend that the bituminous miners demand a 20 percent increase in wages. This hint came from a member of the committee who would not allow the use of his name. Earlier predictions were that a ten percent increase would be asked. The committee member said that since the miners got no increases in 1914 a 20 per cent increase now is no more than just.

Washington, Jan. 22 (By United Press)—The Pittsburg coal operators association in a complaint filed with the interstate commerce commission today against the Pennsylvania and other railroads charged that the rate of 78 cents a ton on cargoes of coal from Pittsburg to Ashtabula, Ohio, is unreasonable and asked a revision.

TWENTY ACRE FARMER WINS PRIZES AT DENVER

Table Rock, Neb., Jan. 22.—(By United Press.)—Arnold Martin, a former Swiss farmer who resides near here, has attracted international attention as a twenty-acre farmer. Recently at Denver he won prizes in every class but the thing about which Mr. Martin is most pleased and proud is that corn he raised was selected by the Chinese commissioner at the Panama Pacific Exposition to be sent to China, where, under the supervision of the Chinese government experts, the seed is to be propagated, acclimated and adopted.

There are few small farms in this locality, many of them running 160 and even 640 acres. Mr. Martin received his training as a small acreage farmer in Switzerland, and he finds no difficulty in making twenty acres pay and pay well, besides getting prize taking crops.

ANNUAL REPORT OF HEALTH BOARD IS MADE TO COUNCIL

Health Officer McCullough Reports Board in Flourishing Condition in Past Year

225 Contagious Diseases Reported During 1915, Over a Hundred of Which Were Reported During Epidemics of January February and March.

At the council meeting which was held Wednesday evening in the borough hall, Health Officer O. B. McCullough submitted this annual report. The report shows great improvements in the manner of administration of the Board of Health, including the inauguration of the keeping of permanent records of the work which the board carries on. The report of the house to house canvass which was taken during the fall was also given.

The following is the report in full as given:

During the year just ended the Board of Health has instituted many very important changes in its methods of administration. Previously the work had not been systemized and no detailed records were kept of work done by the department, except as shown by the minutes. The present system as inaugurated gives permanent records of all the work handled, and the disposition made complaints and inspections together with the other work coming before the board for consideration. We are able therefore to give a more comprehensive report this year than previously.

The largest amount of this work has been done since we have had a full time health officer, namely since about the first of May.

House to house inspection by health officer shows the following.

Population within boro limits, 7,651.

Number of dwellings, 1 614.

Number owning their own homes, 856.

Number living in rented houses, 758 families.

Number of horses in the boro, 228.

Number of cows in the boro, 89.

Number of chickens in the boro, 20.564.

Number of dogs in the boro, 256.

Number of cats in the boro, 454.

In connection with this work 136 clean up notices and 796 nuisance notices were served. Also 30 sewer and 108 sidewalk notices were served.

The citizens lodged 432 complaints most of which have been satisfactorily disposed of. Over 100 quarts of flies were caught in the 17 traps set on the streets.

At the begining of the inspection 564 privies existed. Of this number 238 have been removed. 154 sanitary comodes installed in their place and 113 privies left upon streets where there are no sewers.

There were 135 manure piles most of which have been removed. There have been 73 manure pits constructed.

Pigs to the number of 19 were discovered and ordered removed.

Milk is sold from 76 dwellings. This does not include the dairymen whose wagons come into the boro to sell milk.

Contagious diseases to the number of 255 were reported during the year 1915. Of this number 106 were reported during the epidemics of January, February and March. In the last nine months 149 were reported.

The diseases were as follows:

Measles, 111.
Typhoid, 8.
Scarlet fever, 35.
Diptheria, 13.
Chicken pox, 47.
Whooping cough, 5.
Mumps, 35.
Tuberculosis, 1.

The census shows that 49 cases of tuberculosis were found existing in the boro.

At the present time there are two cases of scarlet fever, three cases of diptheria and one case of chicken pox within the borough limits. This number of contagious diseases is exceptionally small for this time of year and for the population of the town.

Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 22.—(By United Press.)—Though she abhors war, pretty Beatrice Rudawsky, University of California graduate who looks the artist more than the scientific, is experimenting with a deadly explosive which she says will be more powerful than the most affective explosive now in existence.

"Explosives," she says, "are as valuable to peaceful pursuits as to war. If my experiments are successful, I should like to think of them as a step in science, rather than as a means of killing more men."

CHILD IS FATALLY BURNED WHEN FIRE DESTROYED HOME

Home of Paul Chumpa Destroyed by Flames Which Started From Heating Stove

Mother Had Gone on Errand to a Neighbor's House and Returned to Find Home Destroyed and Child Dead.

Clearfield was visited with another disastrous fire yesterday afternoon, and one which claimed a greater toll than Wednesday night's conflagration, as a seventeen month old baby was burned to death. The fire was in the Wrigley addition in the home of Paul Chumpa, a slav. It broke out shortly after three o'clock in the parlor of the house and was caused from the heating stove in the room.

When the firemen arrived on the scene, the house, a two storied frame structure was all ablaze; the flames coming out of every window. The firemen were notified that a child was in the building but could not enter on account of the intense heat and the flames. They immediately directed the water and chemicals in the portion of the house that the child was supposed to be in, but had been misinformed with the result that the part of the house in which the child lay asleep was completely destroyed.

Mrs. Chumpa had gone out to a neighbors home on an errand and left her child asleep on the second floor and two other children playing on a nearby hill. The flames were discovered by a neighbor but they had gained such headway as to prevent entrance into the building. The fire was a very difficult one for the firemen as the house was situated in the township and several thousand feet from a fire plug. Chemicals were used to great advantage in extinguishing the blaze as only two streams of water were used.

The child was left asleep on the second story of the building. From appearances the fire started in the room below from the heating stove. The flames ignited the ceiling and soon destroyed it, the bed in which the child lay falling through the floor. The child was found amid a heap of bedclothes lying on the mattress on the first floor. It was burned only about the head and hands, its body being protected from the flames by the bedclothes.

The entire building was destroyed with an estimated loss of two thousand dollars. It was owned by M. M. Overly.

DERAILED CARS HOLD UP TRAFFIC ON B. R. & P.

WILL PROMOTE PLANS FOR DEVELOPMENT OF PALESTINE

One Thousand Attend Meeting—Much Money Ranised For the Plan

Chicago, Jan. 22.— (By United Press.)—A thousand delegates from Jewish organizations throughout America are to gather in Chicago tomorrow to promote the Jewish plans for the development of Palestine and particularly, Jerusalem. They come to plan for an international congress of their race, which is expected to plan the restoration of Palestine to the Jews. Hundreds of thousands of dollars already have been pledged toward this and much already has been accomplished. Louis D. Brandeis, Boston lawyer, who has been prominent among the Zionists, declared that the American Congress of Jews is not indulging in an idle dream. "It is more than a possibility," he said.

C. B. C. COMPANY ACQUIRES ELEVEN ACRE TRACT OF LAND

New Reservoir Will be Built in the Spring to Eliminate Pumping Of Water

As a result of negotiations closed Wednesday, the Clearfield Bituminous Coal Corporation, operating at Rossiter, has accepted an 11-acre tract of land from Jacob Smith, which will permit them to greatly increase their facilities for securing a more adequate water supply.

The land lies along Canoe Creek, which had been dammed by the company years ago, and from which it had been securing its water supply. It was necessary, however, to pump this water for use in the boilers of the company's plant, and by running its water line three-quarters of a mile farther up the stream the C. B. C. corporation will be enabled to secure sufficient gravity pressure from a new reservoir to be built next spring to eliminaet the necessity of pumping water for stream purposes.

While the plans for the reservoir have not been drawn yet, it is understood that the capacity for water will largely be increased, and that if the watershed proves sufficient, free from impurities, the water may also be turned into the boilers of Rossiter residents for domestic purposes.

The price paid by the corporation for the newly acquired land was $1 100.

Y. M. C. A. SWAMPS JERSEY SHORE IN ONE SIDED GAME

Visitors Challenge Clearfield To Game on Neutral Floor in Near Future

Record Attendance Witnesses Slaughter—Coach Oberdick and Ted Leitzinger as Usual Stars of Game for Clearfield.

Clearfield completely swamped the Jersey Shore basket ball tossers last night on the Y. M. C. A. floor in a very interesting game although one that lacked speed during several periods. Score 59-37. Jersey Shore did not become disheartened by the defeat but instead placed more confidence in their ability to beat Clearfield and are now trying to arrange a game on a neutral floor.

It seems that the visitors are accustomed to a style of game not commonly played by any teams that Clearfield has come up against so far this season. From the manager's story, Jersey Shore has a referee who does not miss a foul and his team, from appearances has been winning their games on their captain's ability to shoot fouls, he making a fine average last night in that department of the game. The manager is willing to put up a guarantee for the game on neutral floor and put it up to Clearfield to say whether or not this game will be played. From their present outlook, the game will probably be played although the date will not be arranged for for some time.

During the time that Captain Snyder of the Jersey Shore team was not complaining about the manner in which the game was refereed, the struggle was staged with the greatest success. The home team completely overpowered their opponents during the entire struggle, and outplayed them in every department with the exception of foul shooting which was a minor part.

The stellar floor game and shooting of Coach Oberdick and the accurate shooting of Ted Leitzinger were the features of the entertainment. The entire game was very amusing for all those who attended, several very comical events happening. The attendance was all that was expected, nearly 175 being present.

The facts set forth in the Fletcher report, humiliating and discouraging as they are, have long been a matter of common knowledge, in spite of the efforts of Secretary Daniels to muzzle the responsible officers of the navy and to keep from the public the real truth about the results of his policy of experiment and scuttle. Fortunately for the cause of truth, it will not be possible for Daniels to discredit Admiral Fletcher and his statements. Both the president and his secretary of the navy have placed on record their high appreciation of Admiral Fletcher as an officer of discretion and statesmanship, a "typical American." In the present temper of the American people and in the face of the universal demand for naval increase adequate to the needs of national defense Admiral Fletcher ought to be safe from punishment at the hands of the man whose mendacity he has so unmercifully exposed.

If Secretary Daniels shal attempt to brazen it out in the face of this revelation of the deadly effect of the Danielizing policy upon naval readiness and efficiency, and if the president shall be willing to allow so serious a handicap upon his program of preparedness to remain in control of the nation's first line of defense, the opponents of the Federal administration will be given new ammunition for their assault all along the line for which they are now preparing. The immediate resignation of Daniels will be too late to undo the harm that he has already done, but it will at least a confession in [illegible] a demonstration that ignorance [illegible] is responsible for a course of policy which during two years has permitted the navy to go backward in every element which makes for efficiency.—Public Ledger.

PAWNBROKERS IN ROME SUFFER LARGE LOSSES

Women Enjoy Financial Prosperity on Husbands Wages from Government

(By United Press)

Rome, Italy, Jan. 6.—(By Mail.)—War, which has boomed almost every industry in the world, has put the Italian pawnshop not on the boom but on the bum. The Italian women say this has happened because their soldier husbands are not at home to spend their money for drink and the wives can use the goverament pay to take care of the family instead of pawning everything in sight. Hard times for the people are supposed to make good times for the pawnbroker, but whatever other trials and miseries the war is inflicting upon Italian wives, mothers and sweethearts, it has lessened rather than increased the financia lworries. Pawnbrokers in Rome alone report a slump of hundreds of thousands of dollars in business. Most of those are government controlled pawnshops and before the war their portals were among the most frequented by all Italy. The government allowance to wives and families amounts to only a few cents a day, but the Italian women have learned frugality in a hard school and they know their lesson well. Not only are most of them taking care of their families, but many of them are scratching and saving enough soldi to redeem some of the plodged household articles. "Of course I can manage when every thing doesn't go for wine," said the wife of a workman. "A lire a day from the government and the fifty centimes a day I make from sewing is a lire and a half more than I had when my man was home. Bread and soup and a little cheese what more does one want? My children and I manage very well."

The saving habit requires cultivation. But it is worth cultivating. The man who gets ahead is the one who spends less than he earns.

Moreover, he saves by a plan. He decides in advance how much he can save. Then every pay day, he goes to the bank and makes his deposit. When the "rainy day" comes or when a chance to make a good investment is offered him, he is ready for it.

Are YOU that man? The County National Bank invites your savings account. Interest will be paid you at the rate of 3 per cent.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidney and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

NEW YORKERS NOT TAKING KINDLY TO HORSE MEAT

People Will Not Accept Diet Recommended by Board of Health

New York, Jan. 20.—(By United Press.)—New Yorkers are not taking kindly to the horse meat diet the Board of Health recently [illegible] the butchers to provide [illegible]. About the only effect the horse meat move has had on the public is the revival of that good old gag about "Neigh! Neigh!" As revised to date it goes like this: Butcher:—Can't I sell you some nice horse steak today? Customer:—Neigh! Neigh! At which the butcher's boy is expected always to laugh. Sort of a horse laugh you know. The public officials have made some serious effort to get the horse meat sales started declaring they believe it would be a good thing economically. Health Commissioner Emerson points out that horse meat is cheaper than beef and quite as nutritious; though slightly different in taste and of somewhat coarser fiber, it is as digestible as beef; that the horse is less liable to [illegible] than is the cow and that the horse is more discriminating in its eating and drinking than is the cow. Arguments, from various sources, against horse meat as food for human beings, are that the flesh is darker, tougher and less palatable than cow meat; that inspection to insure good meat would be difficult to establish; that young, healthy horses whose meat might be good to eat, are worth twice as much as cattle that only crippled, ailing, aged or broken down horses are apt to be put on the food market and that, finally, the public won't overcome its prejudice against horse meat anyhow. There are some horse meat sales, but the market is exceedingly restricted and mighty few shops list the item. Dr. W. T. Hornaday of the Bronx Zoo said today that horse meat is [illegible] and should not be eaten by human beings. Dr. Harlow [illegible] meat was a bully [illegible] ate [illegible] of it in [illegible]. Katherine [illegible] to the State Pardons Board, said she strongly favors the horse meat idea, had eaten it in Hungary and Bohemia and liked it, though it was "a little bit tough." President Frederick Nathan, of the Consumers' league said he didn't like the idea. Several other prominent New Yorkers said they didn't like the idea either. BOOM EDWIN S. STUART FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Political Bosses Guessing—Same Protector Attains "Fame"—Little Stories From Capitol Hill.

Harrisburg, Jan. 21.—Varied emotions mark Capitol Hill's reception of the Philadelphia boom for Ex-Gov. Edwin S. Stuart for the Republican nomination for vice president. Stuart's personal popularity assures the boom a welcome almost everywhere. But coming on the heels of much talk about Gov. Brumbaugh as a presidential candidate it set politicians guessing. No one has thoroughly doped out the proposition, but the general feeling is that harmony between the Bull Moose and the Elephant means that such a rock-ribbed high tariff state as Pennsylvania stands small show of being represented on the ticket.

Notwithstanding the serious purpose back of the "Pennsylvania State Society" of the principal of the state government, most of the persons on Capitol Hill, including some members of the society, decline to take it seriously. It has been variously nicknamed the Sewing Society, the Embroidery Guild and the Old Men's Home.

The offices of the State Workmen's Compensation Board are in the Masonic Temple, facing the Capitol. Les Soloman is secretary of the board. Quite naturally, the secretary's friends speak of "going to see King Solomon in his Temple."

Fame has its drawbacks.

"I spoke in Wilkes-Barre last fall before the State Federation of Women's Clubs," remarked Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, chief state game protector, this afternoon. "Ever since then I have received invitations from all directions to speak locally. Usually, they want me to address the school children in the morning and to speak to the women in the afternoon or evening. I have twenty-five such engagements now."

Dr. Kalbfus has a case of thirty or more mounted specimens of native birds with which he illustrates his talk. Like every other official, he accepts every invitation possible, for it is the best sort of educational publicity.

Under the constitution of lieutenant governor must preside at the opening of the biennial session of the senate and must be in Harrisburg ten times each year for the Board of Pardons' sessions. That's all. He gets $5,000 per year. He has no cares of office, for all the patronage at his disposal are two clerkships. The lieutenant governor can preside over the senate whenever he desires. Frank B. McClain did a great deal of that last winter. So did John M. Reynolds, his immediate successor.

LEE MAGEE.

Some base ball authorities believe that Lee Magee is the greatest player in the game, with the single exception of Ty Cobb. He showed wonderful form with the Federal league club of Brooklyn last season. Capt. Huston, one of the owners of the New York American league club who negotiated the deal, paid $22,500 for the Fed. Magee is equally as good as a second baseman or outfielder. The New York club needs a second baseman, and it also needs three good outfielders.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

Is it practical to bore out and put in new pistons?

It is advisable when the cylinders are not worn too eccentric, and only a small amount of metal need be removed. Perhaps .002 to .005 inch would be sufficient.

One of the coils on my battery box buzzes all the time. I have looked for a short circuit, but am not able to find it. What is the trouble?

Probably a small strand of wire is making contact where attached to the timer or the insulation on the timer at that point is broken. If the timer is old you should get a new one, as the trouble may be inside and due to excessive wear.

My car travels well up to a speed of twenty miles per hour, but when the speed is increased the water boils so fast that the radiator is soon emptied and consequently I have the [illegible] trouble which accompanies a hot engine. The pump is in good condition, new heavy hose all around. The radiator was opened up and all the tubes were free, and also the tanks are in good shape. Circulation seems to be good. The cylinders have recently been burned out with oxygen. What can be the trouble?

It would seem that your trouble must result from one of two causes—first, an improper setting of the spark, which can be corrected by advancing the magneto, or, second, by a collapsing hose connection between the radiator and the water pump, which at twenty miles per hour or over becomes closed, due to the suction of the pump. This latter cause seems to be the most probable, and it can be remedied by winding a piece of wire into the shape of a coil spring and inserting it tightly into the tube, thus holding the walls against collapsing under the suction of the pump.

Would running a small stream of water through the engine while it is hot and running, pouring it slowly into the petcock at the [illegible] of the intake manifold, loosen and blow out carbon in the cylinders?

The use of water in this way hardly would loosen the carbon. Kerosene allowed to remain in the cylinders for about twelve hours would be better, for the loosening [illegible] the oil in the [illegible].

What is the [illegible] curved piece of [illegible] of the valve in inner tubes? Should it [illegible] be taken off the tube when the tube is to be used with straight side tires? I find that it cuts the flaps and sometimes the [illegible]. I have removed them [illegible] and see no fault in [illegible] without them.

What are the advantages of the shaft [illegible] friction?

The shaft drive is simple, easily lubricated, requires practically no care, is not heavy, cumbersome or noisy and makes an ideal drive method for passenger cars. The chain drive is good for [illegible] that it allows better [illegible]. However, it is [illegible] more care than the [illegible] to lubricate [illegible]. Friction drive is the simplest of all and weighs much less than any other form, is more easily operated, is cheaper and has a low operating cost.

How may a spark plug be fixed so it will not lose compression? I find the garage men just screw them in tightly, but when tested with oil some of them leak more or less.

Some plugs cause leakage because of broken down gaskets between the shell and insulator, but if you refer to leakage around the threads this may easily be [illegible]. Use a good copper gasket and before placing a plug into position spread stove blacking lightly [illegible]. This will prevent [illegible] will not interfere with [illegible].

My car runs well a couple of miles after starting, but will begin to miss fire on one of the cylinders as soon as the engine [illegible] and misses [illegible] I prime it. Then it [illegible] a dozen revolutions [illegible]. Can you explain?

Apparently there is an air leak in the cylinder which misses. You should examine this carefully, going over all connections of manifold to the cylinder and also going around the threads of the spark plugs and priming cups. With a rich starting mixture it is possible that an air leak does not have the effect of causing a miss, but as soon as the motor begins to run expansion due to the heat in the cylinder causes the [illegible] and hence a [illegible] possibility is that the [illegible] supplying only [illegible] and then, as soon as [illegible] the excess is [illegible] motor will not have [illegible]. A third [illegible] one of the valves of [illegible] needs grinding or [illegible] properly. This also [illegible] and when looking [illegible] should not fail to inspect [illegible] surrounding the valve stems.

Why will not some cars start without putting gasoline in the priming cup?

[illegible] that some cars will not start without first priming is that a [illegible] mixture is not being [illegible] at the start. This is some [illegible] due to carburetor adjustment [illegible] to manifold design [illegible].

Is there any way of fixing springs [illegible] easily? I have [illegible]

[illegible] ever [illegible]. Another very prevalent cause of spring breakage is allowing the clips to get loose. They must fit up snug and tight on the springs.

SHEPARD'S WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

New York, Jan. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard today quietly celebrated the third anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. Shepard before her marriage was Miss Helen M. Gould. Since their last wedding anniversary the Shepards have acquired an adopted son to share the attention of the couple with their many schemes of philanthropy. Nearly the whole of the year is passed by the Shepards at Lyndhurst, their magnificent estate at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. Intimate friends of the couple declare it is impossible to say whether the husband or wife is most keenly interested in the practical work of charity and philanthropy. Both have made it their life work. Neither has manifested the slightest interest in the diversions that most wealthy people find necessary to their happiness. They will have none of society. Its closely guarded doors would have swung back for them long ago had they knocked upon them or even shown that they were aware that aught existed behind them. But the multi-millionaire couple live as though society were not.

Winter Care of Child Takes Much Attention

So much emphasis is constantly placed upon the necessity for special care of the baby in summer, when the heat is excessive and diarrheal diseases at their worst, that the fact that winter, too, has its special dangers for the baby is sometimes overlooked.

But the combination of heat and diarrhea is hardly more serious for the baby in the months of July and August, than are cold and respiratory diseases in winter.

It is plain then, that the winter care of the baby deserves special attention from everyone interested in his health and well-being.

It has been demonstrated quite conclusively that a large part of the deaths from summer diarrhea are needless, because this disease may be cured in many cases, and prevented entirely in many more by the proper care and feeding of the baby during the heated months. The same doctrine is now being applied to the group of what are commonly called "winter diseases" of babies and children, namely, bronchitis, pneumonia, "colds," and the like, which are, like diarrhea, to a large extent, preventable by the intelligent care of the baby, and by surrounding him with proper living conditions.

These proper living conditions consist both in winter and summer of suitable food, in the right amounts, at the right times, cleanliness, sufficient sleep, plenty of fresh, clean air to breathe, and protection from exposure to infection diseases. It is chiefly the lack of these two latter requirements that causes the winter illnesses among babies.

It is not the cold of winter which makes people sick, ordinarily, but rather the stale over-heated air inside our houses and public buildings, which we breathe and re-breathe, thus passing disease germs about from one to another. Babies are particularly liable to be infected in this way, because they spend a large part of their time indoors, and because mothers are apt to feel that to keep the baby warm the rooms must be kept shut tight.

A mother should use every means in her power to protect her baby from "taking cold," as it is commonly described. "Colds" are due to a germ and are very contagious, being easily passed from one person to another in coughing or sneezing. A nursing mother with a cold should tie a thin cloth or veil over her mouth and nose while nursing the baby, and should be careful never to cough or sneeze in his face, nor kiss him on the mouth. She should be particularly careful not to use her own handkerchief for the baby, nor sleep with him, while the disease lasts. Many babies contract these colds by being taken up and kissed by visitors, and it is a wise rule to keep the baby away from the presence of people who are coughing and sneezing. The reason for this great care as regards a baby is that a contagious cold is very often the forerunner of bronchitis and pneumonia, which diseases cause the deaths of many thousands of young babies every year, and which are infinitely easier to prevent than to cure.

Fresh air is the most effective weapon with which to fight the diseases of the respiratory tract. This does not necessarily mean cold air, for cold air may be stale, and warm air may be pure. The ventilation of most American houses is faulty, since in order to keep them warm enough to suit us we shut them so tightly as to make the air unfit to breathe, after a few hours. To counteract this tendency mothers should see to it that all the occupied rooms of the house are thoroughly aired at least twice every day in the coldest weather, while in moderate weather there should be as nearly constant a supply of fresh air throughout the house, night and day, as can be managed.

When the temperature outside is very low, the baby should be taken into a warm room while his nursery is being aired, and at night, his bed should be shielde from a direct draft. If there is a communicating room, the window in that room may be opened, if there is danger of chilling the air of his sleeping room.

If the cold is excessive, or if there is a raw, damp wind blowing or rain or snow falling, the baby should be given his daily airing in a room with the windows open, or on a protected porch, dressing him warmly in out of door clothing. He should be taken out during the middle of the day, for a little while, never long enough to run the risk of chilling him. This applies especially to young and delicate babies. As a child gets old enough to walk about an dthus exercise himself, he can be allowed to play for some time in an open room or where he is sheltered from the wind.

But an airing every day does not take the place of fresh air in the house, day and night, and to secure sufficient ventilation for health the mother must be on the watch to see that the rooms are opened and the air changed at frequent intervals.

We met a man on Lick Run hill the other day, who stopped us and told us he had just seen a bear cross the road and go toward the river; he was a pretty big man and we didn't call him a liar but there was not a bear track in sight and we know no sane bear would be out such weather.

During the recent cold spell we were told a young man walked from Germoor to Wolf Run to see his best girl. Guess you would walk further than that if you saw the girl once, eh Henry?

A BANKER'S ADVICE TO A HOUSEWIFE ON ECONOMY

Cleveland, O., Jan. 22.—"If every family saved one match a day, the United States would be ahead $500,000 a year," today said F. D. Conner, president of one of the biggest financial institutions here. Conner believes every housewife should be paid a weekly wage to prevent family squabbles; and that every wife should prevent food waste. He claims fortunes in food are thrown into garbage cans. The banker believes bills should be paid by check and a stipulated amount saved weekly.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

Lesson IV.—First Quarter, For Jan. 23, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Rom. viii, 12-25. Memory Verses, 16, 17—Golden Text, Rom. viii, 14—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

After a lesson on Pentecost and Peter's first sermon such a chapter as Romans viii seems to be an appropriate study, for in it the Spirit is mentioned nineteen times in connection with conversion, the daily life of the believer and the redemption of our bodies at the resurrection of the just. The epistle begins with a statement by the apostle, as a servant of Jesus Christ, that he was separated into the gospel of God concerning His Son, Jesus Christ our Lord, who was with power declared to be the Son of God by His resurrection from the dead (i, 1-4). He said that this gospel was the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, that it made him debtor to all who had not heard it, that he was ready to give it to all and that he was not ashamed of it (i, 14-16). In the following chapters he declares plainly that all, without exception, are guilty before God and cannot be saved by trying to be good or do good, but may be justified freely by grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus (iii, 9-24; iv, 1-7, 19-25; v, 1-11; vi, 23). Then in our lesson chapter, beginning with "no condemnation" and ending with "no separation" because of the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord, he sets forth more fully the benefits of this great redemption to every believer and to the whole creation. The whole chapter should be studied, omitting none of it.

The phrase "in Christ Jesus" (verses 1, 2, 39) seems to me to be the key to the whole chapter. Nothing more is necessary, nothing less will suffice, for salvation or for the daily life of those who are saved. (Gal. v, 6; vi, 15; Eph. i, 10, 13; iii, 13). The carnal mind, the flesh, the natural man, can never be improved so as to be fit for the presence of God, and, although it remains in us after we become "in Christ," we are under no obligation to it and should have no confidence in it, but continually, prayerfully and persistently reckon it dead in the power of the Holy Spirit (chapter vi, 11; vii, 24, 25; viii, 1-14; I Cor. ix, 27; II Cor. iv, 10, 11; Phil. iii, 3). By the Spirit and the Word we are born again just as in the beginning of the Bible record the light shone in the darkness (Gen. i, 2, 3; II Cor. iv, 6), and only by the same Spirit and Word can we live the life of a child of God (John vi, 63; xvii, 17). The Spirit always works by the Word and thus bears witness to the believer. The witness of the Spirit is not a feeling, an emotion, an experience, but is simply a resting unwaveringly on what the Spirit says to us in His word. Compare lesson verse 16 and John i, 12, and see my tract on "The Witness of the Spirit."

Having received the Lord Jesus it is our privilege to know, on the authority of the infallible word of God, that we have become children of God, heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ, have now eternal life and can never perish (verses 16, 17; John x, 28). While this assurance is not essential to salvation, it is necessary in order to live the life of victory that will glorify God. As the redeemed of the Lord we have become soldiers of Jesus Christ and are ever in a great conflict with the world, the flesh and the devil, so there will be much to endure in the way of trial as well as much to do in the way of service, but the way is all prepared for us and also the works we are to do. (II Tim. ii, 3, 4; Eph vi, 10-18; ii, 10; Rev. ii, 10; Phil. i, 29.) God the Father, Son and Spirit are all for us (verses 26, 31, 34). All things are working together for our good, to make us more like Him whose witnesses we are, and we are assured that all we can possibly need is freely given to us in Christ (verses 28, 29, 32).

We shall not be the overcomers that we should be in the process of being killed all the day long (verse 36; Ps. xliv, 22) unless we have an heart our lesson verses 18 to 25. There is real suffering with Christ, not for our salvation, but in service and fellowship, for every believer, and we will not triumph in the conflict nor endure patiently unless we have ever before us the glory of His kingdom, which we are to share with Him. The whole creation is groaning, and never before so severely as now (May, 1915), and there will be no permanent deliverance until the time of the manifestation of the sons of God—that is, the time of our coming with Christ in His glory to set up on earth His kingdom of righteousness and peace. It is true that if we are "in Christ" we are now children of God, but not until we meet Him in the air shall we know the full meaning of adoption, the redemption of our body (verse 23 and I John iii, 1, 2; see also Col. iii, 4; Rev. iii, 21; v, 9, 10). We groan while we wait for the redemption, ... at His coming to the air for us. The whole creation groans while it waits for His coming with us to deliver it from its long bondage of sin and suffering (verses 19-22).

All things are not working for our comfort, but for our present and eternal good in His sight, and all is because of His love from which nothing can separate us (verses 38, 39). If we could see the glory which awaits us and for which He is fitting us by the all things we would be more willing to bear all.
